Meiny Vermaas-van der Heide

Earth Quilt, 2002

Imported stone

Location: 6th Street Park
521 S Mill Avenue
west of city Hall

Description: Earth Quilt is a large paving pattern designed to look like a quilt, made from imported stone in colors of black, tans, and reds. Earth quilts are the artist's silent voice joining the choir of women worldwide, using the universal language of love and the beauty of patchwork, while expressing a heartfelt desire for peace, social and environmental justice, shared globally.

Artist biography: Meiny Vermaas-van der Heide's work reflects her combined American and Dutch heritage. Her techniques are born of traditional American patchwork and her inspiration comes from Dutch painters Piet Mondrian and Vincent Van Gogh, and from the color of tulips and other flowers of Holland. Vermaas-van der Heide's quilts are known internationally for their strong graph, minimalist appeal and the 'color magic' of visual illusions. Her widely published works have been shown in numerous exhibitions throughout the United States and Europe, as well as in many publications. She was the featured artist at the First European Quilt Fair. Vermaas-van der Heide, a professionally trained teacher, also has written about her work in many well-recognized publications. She has been teaching quilt making since 1992 and has taught in the U.S. and in Europe, including workshops at the International Quilt Festival in Houston and the New York Quilt Festival.

Funding: This project was funded through the City of Tempe Municipal Arts Fund with the support of the Tempe Municipal Arts Commission.
